

As a teacher educator in a rural community, I see first hand how students suffer from the lack of high-speed broadband access. I add my voice to those encouraging the FCC to increase funding for the E-Rate program.